

BE PART OF OUR SUSTAINABLE FUTURE

Owned by Wesfarmers Resources, the Curragh mining operation is a long established, low cost producer supplying domestic and export coal markets and we are currently at the commencement of an exciting expansion phase that will significantly increase production and extend mine life to beyond 2025.

Drill & Blast Superintendent

Reporting to the Manager Mining, you will manage a team of Drill & Blast Engineers, Supervisors and Contractors to undertake safe and efficient blasting practices that deliver sufficient blasted inventory to the mining fleet.

You will scope and manage contracts, maintain budgets and reports, and work closely with your peers in planning, production and geology to ensure optimum mine operational performance.

You will undertake acting/relief and other roles when required.

The ideal candidate will possess:

- Mining Engineering degree or Shotfirers License
- Minimum of 5 years of relevant supervisory and industry experience
- Experience in contractor administration and management
- Sound knowledge of statutory laws and regulations governing drill and blast practices at open cut coal mines
- Excellent interpersonal skills including strong written and verbal communication and presentation skills
- Ability to source, analyse and interpret data for use in management decision making

You will be rewarded with premium pay, subsidised housing, incentive plans, a supportive community and, as we're part of Wesfarmers, unique career opportunities. Located on site in Blackwater, this position is full-time Monday to Friday.
